Item 8.01. Other Events.

On April 12, 2016, the Paris Court of Appeal issued a confidential decision with respect to the action filed by Huawei in July 2015 requesting annulment of the arbitration panel's award in the arbitration proceeding initiated jointly by InterDigital and Huawei. InterDigital prevailed in the Paris Court of Appeal decision, which denied Huawei's request, and found that there were no grounds for annulment of the award.

The arbitration was commenced in the International Court of Arbitration of the International Chamber of Commerce in April 2014 pursuant to a December 2013 agreement between InterDigital and Huawei to jointly seek a determination by an arbitral tribunal of fair, reasonable and non-discriminatory terms and conditions to be included in a binding worldwide patent license agreement to take effect upon issuance of the award. The arbitration panel delivered a confidential partial award in May 2015, followed by a confidential final award in July 2015. In July 2015, InterDigital filed a petition in the District Court for the Southern District of New York (the "New York District Court") for an order confirming the arbitration award (the "New York Proceeding"). Huawei subsequently filed a motion to stay the New York Proceeding pending the outcome of the proceeding it had filed in the Paris Court of Appeal. In February 2016, the judge in the New York Proceeding agreed to the stay, subject to the requirement that Huawei post suitable security. Such security is required to be posted by April 27, 2016.

InterDigital will seek to enforce the arbitration award, including by filing a request with the New York District Court to lift the stay in the New York Proceeding and to confirm the arbitration award.

To date, Huawei has not made any payments called for under the award. InterDigital will recognize any related revenue in the period in which the amount of revenue is fixed or determinable and collectability is reasonably assured.
